

SHERBORNE HOUSE ARTS in partnership with THELMA HULBERT GALLERY

EARTHSCAPES: Geology + Geography
SEMINAR for artists
Monday 7 June 2010, 10am - 4.30pm

How is our landscape formed and how do artists interpret it? Using the works in the accompanying exhibition as a starting point, Earthscapes: Geology + Geography will offer a stimulating series of presentations and discussions with artists and scientists exploring current approaches to landscape. Speakers include exhibiting artists Richard Harris, Tania Kovats, Stephen Vaughan, Jeremy Gardiner and Kate Raggett, plus geologist Sam Scriven - Earth Science Advisor for the Jurassic Coast World Heritage Site Team, Harriet Hawkins - researcher in the School of Geography, University of Exeter whose current research explores geographies of art, looking in particular at landscape art, and Dr Helen Wickstead - Landscape Archaeologist based at Kingston University, London and Coordinator of Art+Archaeology, an initiative set up to explore the interchange between archaeology and visual art.

The day is aimed at professional artists from ALL disciplines and will include the opportunity for questions, discussion and debate. The exhibition will be open throughout the day.
